Introduction

From 23 until 26 May 2019 citizens from all EU Member States will vote in the next European Parliament elections. As in previous elections, the European Parliament will provide accurate and timely information on the results at both Member State and European level, making reliable data on turnout and the future composition of Parliament available to citizens and the media.

The Public Opinion Monitoring Unit (POMU) of the European Parliament's Directorate-General for Communication is responsible for this exercise. Together with its experienced external partner, Kantar Public, POMU assembles available information already in the run-up to the European elections, starting with voting intention surveys from Member States, the publication of seat projections (as from beginning 2019) and leading to the establishment of first global result projection on the night of the 26 May.

The present report has been prepared by Kantar Public for DG COMM's Public Opinion Monitoring Unit. The objective of this report is to provide the most accurate and up-to-date information on the European political landscape, in preparation for the election night.

The data used in this report was assembled with the contribution of Kantar Public's national polling institutes in each of the 27 Member States, all of which will be actively involved in monitoring the European elections, and a political scientist working closely with Kantar Public. Parliament's Public Opinion Monitoring Unit and its network of Liaison Offices in all Member States provided additional data and insight for this report.

The report provides the details of the voting intention surveys used in each country together with key information regarding the current political landscape and electoral laws in each country, which could affect the results of the next European Parliament elections.

The present report covers the month of January 2019 (as of 23.01.2019). The next report will be published mid-February 2019.

Methodology

Data selection and collection

Kantar Public prepares each report together with the European Parliament. Following the withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the European Union as from 29 March 2019, the size of the European Parliament in the next legislative period will be reduced from 751 to 705 elected representatives. From the 73 seats originally allocated to the United Kingdom, 27 seats will be reallocated among 14 Member States, while 46 seats will not be used for the time being.

The voting intention surveys are selected and collected by Kantar Public and their national partners as well as by the EP Liaison Offices, with the Public Opinion Monitoring Unit approving the final selection of the surveys used.

Priority is always given to surveys on European election voting intentions. When such surveys are not available, national voting intentions polls are used for the projections. In some cases, when a national election recently occurred and no voting intentions polls have been published since (e.g. in Luxembourg during October), the results of the national elections are used to prepare the projections. Only polls considered as most reliable are taken into consideration, by assessing the methodology, reputation of the polling institute and availability of methodological information. As the methodology of voting intention surveys can vary between Member States, Kantar Public will be reweighing polls if necessary, but only to eliminate categories such as "undecided" or "not going to vote". No further adjustments are made. Utmost care is taken to avoid any bias in the choice of polling surveys used for the calculation of the projection. At the same time, no guarantee can be given that the selection is fully exhaustive.
